

Gunung.org – High Level Thinking

Gunung.org is a consultancy and training initiative with several interconnected aims. The core goal is to help people and organizations overcome many different types of problems and challenges using the skills of Critical Thinking and Creative Problem Solving to correct common cognitive mistakes, improve efficiency, reach potential in terms of business innovation, maximize profitability and to find deeper meaning according to clear intellectual standards.

What is Critical Thinking?

Put simply, Critical Thinking is concerned with thinking clearly and rationally about what to think and what to do. The thinking is derived from key elements of philosophy, psychology and the fundamentals of scientific thought and empirical rationalism.

As we make decisions and choices thousands of times a day, whether actively or passively, this covers almost every situation and context in our life. Critical Thinking can be used everywhere – in work, in romance, in home life, in our hobbies, on our holidays, and in our relationships with friends and family. It is important whether we work in education, finance, research, management, or any other sector.

How our key consulting services can help you:

1. Using Critical Thinking and Creative Problem Solving techniques to find innovative solutions and overcome challenges for business managers through every aspect of their operations.
2. Creating bespoke training materials and visualization aids to develop the Critical Thinking skills of staff members in personal, professional and academic contexts.

Return on Investment (ROI):

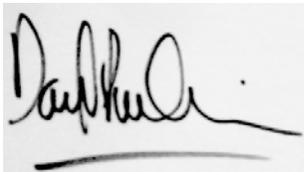

Like all top-level specialist business consultancies, we promise results that will - in the medium-term - provide your company with improved efficiency and therefore increased profitability.

Our experience:

- Over a decade developing innovative educational curricula and training materials at language centres and embassy schools in Southeast Asia.
- Collaborating with management to improve efficiency in all aspects of business operations including Critical Thinking skills development.
- Philosophy tutoring in the United Kingdom, using key philosophical concepts both ancient and modern to solve a range of challenges for clients in various contexts.

To discuss creative and Critical Thinking consultations and tailor-made training, please email us with an introduction about yourself and your context or situation. We can sometimes offer discounts for those working in the non-profit sector.

We look forward to hearing from you and hopefully collaborating in the near future!
